

“How is Intuitive Guidance different from Coaching?”

"In a world filled with distractions, reaching for direction and answers from our intuition is the most reliable resource we have." ~

Gail Scott

Intuitive Guidance is ideal for anyone struggling with what to do next in life (on any topic) and wishing to access the Spiritual Realm for answers. As a deeply gifted intuitive individual, I have a gift for being able to provide accurate answers for what people need to hear. I connect with a non-physical, spiritual and all-knowing resource I call “Alaster”; an energy I feel are Masters of the Universe. I also connect with Archangels, and Spirit Guides who help me discern what someone needs in any moment and I can articulate the messages in a way that helps people who are searching for answers.

Clients are asked to prepare for the session by forming 5-6 burning questions for these spiritual resources. No question is off limits. Each session consists of two intuitive card readings which set up and close the session and providing synchronistic connection to the spiritual messages. They generally make total sense to the client and relate to the questions in a profound way. Most clients find the additional card readings very helpful. Sessions last 50-60 minutes, are recorded and downloaded to Dropbox. The messages provide direction, personal information for the client, with reasons why their life is a certain way, and what needs to happen, moving forward. Sometimes the answers are unusual, and not what a client might expect. We ask that all clients keep an open mind to the guidance which comes through.

Coaching sessions are structured very differently. Through a 3-step process we define an expected outcome for the session, and client and coach work through issues the client is dealing with related to the outcome. In an intuitive guidance session there is no time to provide coaching like this. Anyone wishing this kind of guidance would need to consider separate coaching moving forward.

I feel fortunate my extensive life experience, wisdom, and natural gifts help individuals, groups and companies move out of a “stuck” phase into an action-based flow of life, whether through intuitive guidance or coaching.

If you wish to find answers from the spiritual world, then intuitive work is for you. Call today to create a better tomorrow.

With sincerity...
